

Since 1952, The Appraisal Journal has been the leading peer-reviewed forum for appraisal professionals. Consider becoming an author for the Journal and use your professional knowledge and experience to benefit yourself and your profession.

articles needed

The Appraisal Journal welcomes manuscripts on all topics related to real estate valuation.

The Appraisal Journal is especially interested in receiving manuscripts on the observable value impacts of residential or commercial design incorporating energy-efficient, green, or sustainable features.

Case study analyses on value effects are encouraged.

incentives

Awards

The Appraisal Journal presents the AIET Armstrong/Kahn Award, the AIET Swango Award, and the AIET Academic Article Award each year for exceptional articles published in the Journal. Each of these awards carries a $1000 honorarium, underwritten by funding from the Appraisal Institute Education Trust.

Continuing Education Credit

Appraisal Institute members receive 20 hours of continuing education credit for an article published in the Journal, up to a maximum of 50 hours in each five-year continuing education cycle.

Please consult the Manuscript Guide for specifics about the article submission process.